

Ariel Asmah
P. O. Box TD 471,
Takoradi, Ghana.
10th July, 2024.

The Managing Partner,
Blagogee, Blacksword & Co.,
No. 3 Pawpaw Street,
East Legon- Accra.

Dear Sir,

APPLICATION FOR PUPPILAGE TRAINING

"Anything worth doing is worth doing well." This is the adage that has guided me throughout my legal journey. Starting out, I felt unsure of the path I wanted to take. However, this value of excellence has pushed me to unlock my full potential in every endeavour from academics and internships to extracurricular activities.

My internship at ShawbellConsulting exemplified this. It was more than just completing tasks, but a transformative learning experience. I honed my legal research and writing skills, using various legal databases to deliver well-researched reports. This drive was also manifested in my volunteer experience with the University of Ghana Plastics Recycling Project, where we expanded our operation to the La beachfront areas and even liaised with a plastic production company, Miniplast Ltd and Voltic Ghana.

My dedication to continuous learning is evident through my certifications in Legal Tech and the Digital Transformation of Law from Universidad Austral and a Digital Skills Certification from Soronko Academy. I aim to leverage technology to provide legal services to clients.

At M & O Law Consult, I gained valuable experience conducting legal research on real estate law and drafting legal documents like conveyances and sale and purchase agreements. At KPMG, I honed my research skills by gathering and analyzing complex client information for due diligence purposes. This involved understanding regulations, identifying potential risks, and effectively summarizing findings. These experiences, combined with my volunteer work at the Fair Justice Initiative, have solidified my passion for the law and my desire to advocate for those in need. My entrepreneurial experience as the founder of Locsmith further demonstrates my initiative and ability to independently solve problems.

Blagogee, Blacksword & Co.,’s reputation for excellence in diverse legal areas aligns perfectly with my desire to gain a well-rounded understanding of the legal profession. This pupillage training presents an invaluable chance to learn from and be mentored by acclaimed, result-oriented legal experts and litigants. I can adapt and excel in any new challenge. I'm eager to learn, be taught, and contribute to finding innovative solutions for the firm’s clients.

My work experiences and skills will serve as a springboard for my professional development under your tutelage. I look forward to discussing my qualifications further in an interview.

Yours Sincerely,

Ariel Amah

(0204463620)